- 15 1 One day, d'Artagnan was riding down a street with Planchet when they recognized a man standing outside a house.
 2 Planchet did what he was told, while d'Artagnan tied up the horses and then waited behind a tree.
 3 A few minutes later, a carriage came along and stopped just in front of him.
 4 At that moment, the Comte de Wardes's servant was called inside the house.
 5 Then a young servant girl jumped out of Milady's carriage and walked towards Planchet.
 6 But, before Planchet could reply, she got back in the carriage with Milady and it drove off.
- 16 1 "You stupid man! What are you doing?" cried the Englishman.
 2 "I'd like to teach you some manners," said d'Artagnan.

- 3 “Meet me for a duel behind the Luxembourg Palace,” said d’Artagnan.
- 4 “I’m going to let you live because I don’t want to upset your beautiful sister,” said d’Artagnan.
- 5 “This young man had the chance to kill me earlier, but he chose not to. So I’m sure that you’ll thank him,” Lord de Winter said to his sister-in-law.
- 6 “I’m very pleased to meet you and thankful for what you did today,” said Milady.
