I have some surprising news. Yesterday, Louisa arrived back in Uppercross from Lyme. So in the evening, Charles and I went to visit her at the Great House, and we learned that she is engaged to Captain Benwick! We thought that she and Captain Wentworth might get engaged. So you see, Anne, Charles was quite wrong about you. Captain Benwick was never interested in you.
Our cousin, William Elliot, is in Bath. He's visited us three times.
Sir Walter and his daughter have left London and gone back to Kellynch Hall. Sir Walter is a very stupid man. He has invited me to Kellynch this summer, but I won't go. I'm not interested in Kellynch. Soon I'll get married and have my own money.
I was listening to your conversation with Captain Harville, and I must tell you my feelings. When a man really loves a woman, he will never forget her. For eight years, I have loved only you. I came to Bath just to find you. Please tell me that I am not too late. F. W.
